Baird Trust Company

A Baird associate who refers a client to Baird Trust Company (“Baird Trust”) for trust administration and/or investment management services will receive an ongoing referral fee of up to 50% of the fees earned by Baird Trust from that client, which referral fee will count as associate production for purposes of compensation. When a Baird associate refers a client to a third party bank participating in Baird’s securities-based lending program under which a client can obtain a line of credit or other loan from the bank, the Baird associate is eligible to receive an ongoing referral fee at an annual rate of up to 0.25% of the client’s outstanding borrowings with that bank.

Baird Capital

A Baird associate who refers a deal (such as an acquisition of a portfolio company) to Baird Capital that successfully closes will be entitled to an award of up to $150,000, depending on the size of the transaction and the associate’s involvement. A Baird associate who introduces businesses or business opportunities to Investment Banking that result in advisory or underwriting engagements is eligible for a referral fee of 2.5%, 5%, 7.5% or 10% of the net fees received by the Investment Banking group. The referral fee is based on the fee received by the Investment Banking department, net of unreimbursed expenses, if any. In the case of public offerings, the referral fee is based on the management fee portion of the gross spread (typically 20% of gross spread). Subsequent transactions involving the company will reflect fees at 50% of the applicable referral percentage for the second transaction and 25% of the applicable referral percentage for the third transaction as long as the Baird associate maintains the client relationship.
